Sub.: Regular Arrear Examinations – Changes in the Grading Policy for the Regular Arrear examinations

Revised Regular Arrear Examination Guidelines and Grading Policy

Students who fail to clear the course should re-register / substitute for the courses as per the existing academic regulations, and therefore, there is no concept of arrear examinations. However, student can avail the option to clear the courses with 'F' or 'N' grade through regular arrear examination after completion of the pre-final year of the study.

If the student opts to clear the backlog courses through regular arrear examination, then the student should appear for an arrear examination for all the embedded components of the course.

There is no change in the maximum number of courses that can be registered under regular arrear examinations of the respective programmes.

There is no limit on the number of attempts for a course under the regular arrear option after completion of minimum period of study in both Fall and Winter semesters.

However, the student can also switch back to re-registering the course, if he/she fails to secure a pass grade in the arrear examination. During such re-registrations, the student should register for all the components of the courses.

Grading Criteria:

1. The component-wise internal marks, excluding FAT (Final Review in case of embedded project) marks, obtained by the student during the latest course registration will be taken for computing the grand total mark. The marks obtained in the arrear examination will replace the FAT (Final Review in case of embedded project) marks towards calculating the grand total mark.
2. The existing absolute grading criteria with a maximum grade cap of , will continue for awarding grades for all courses registered for regular arrear examinations.
3. Additionally, for the students with low internals, a concept of challenge 50 will be followed. Accordingly, if the student secures minimum of 50% in the arrear examination conducted for each component of the course, the student can be declared pass with an 'E' grade without considering the internal marks.
4. However, the better of the two grades obtained, as stated in the points (2) and (3) above, will be awarded.
